02. Form the plurals of these compound nouns.

father-in-law -	commander-in-chief - sister-in-law -	guest-of-honour - teacher-in-charge -	passer-by -
son-in-law -	notary-public -
passer-by -	by-way -

A large majority of nouns in the English language are pluralized by adding a 's' or 'es' to the end of the word. They are called regular plurals. Nouns that do not follow the above rule are called irregular plurals.

To make a word ending in -us plural, change -us to -i. Nouns with an -is ending can be made plural by changing -is to -es. Nouns ending with -on by changing -a. words ending in -um shed their -um and replace it with -a to form plural. Nouns ending in -ix are changed to -ices in formal settings, but sometimes -xes is perfectly acceptable.
