Lion and the mouse

The lion and the mouse Once there was a lion, who was the king, lived in a jungle. He lived in a cave. One day, after having a limb of a young deer for the lunch, he had a little nap. Suddenly, a mouse who was running on the cave recklessly fell on the lion's back. Then the lion woke up and saw the mouse. The lion was got angry as his nap was broken. He roared at the mouse and said, "I'm going to kill you." The mouse got frightened. He pleaded the lion to save his life. Also the mouse told the lion that he could help him at any trouble. The lion laughed and laughed and saved the mouse telling that he would not need any help from a tiny creature like a mouse. On another day, the while the lion was walking in the jungle for food, he got caught to a hunter's trap. He tried and tried but could not get out of the trap. The lion roared painfully. It echoed throughout the jungle. The little mouse too heard the sound. He thought that the lion was in a trouble. When the mouse reached to where the sound came, he saw the lion in the trap. He felt sorry for the lion and started biting the ropes of the trap with his tiny sharp teeth. When the ropes were all cut, the lion could manage to set himself free. He was very happy. He thanked the mouse a lot. The lion thought, "This mouse saved my life. However small one may be, they can be of help to others." Finally they became very good friends.
