Test 10

Read the given paragraph and answer the questions.

The giant panda is not only deeply loved by the Chinese, by many foreigners too, and not just children. Although there are many zoos in China and elsewhere, where you can see a giant panda, the best place to see them in Chengdu – the giant panda’s “hometown”.

The giant panda also known as panda bear or simply panda. It is easily recognized by the large, distinctive black patches around its eyes, over the ears, and across its round body. The giant panda’s diet is over 99% bamboo.

The giant panda lives in a few mountain ranges in central China, mainly in Sichuan province, Shaanxi and Gansu. As a result of farming, deforestation, and other development, the giant panda has been driven out of the lowland areas where it once lived.

Adored around the world, the distinctive black and white animal is a national treasure in China. While its numbers are slowly increasing, the giant panda remains one of the rarest and most endangered bears in the world.
